

PLYNE

Designed By: Oficio

PLYNE was created to bring softness, balance and connection back into modern workspaces.

As workplaces became increasingly open and fast paced, we saw a growing need for pieces that could create separation without making spaces feel closed off. PLYNE combines integrated greenery with functional storage to subtly divide environments while maintaining openness and flow.

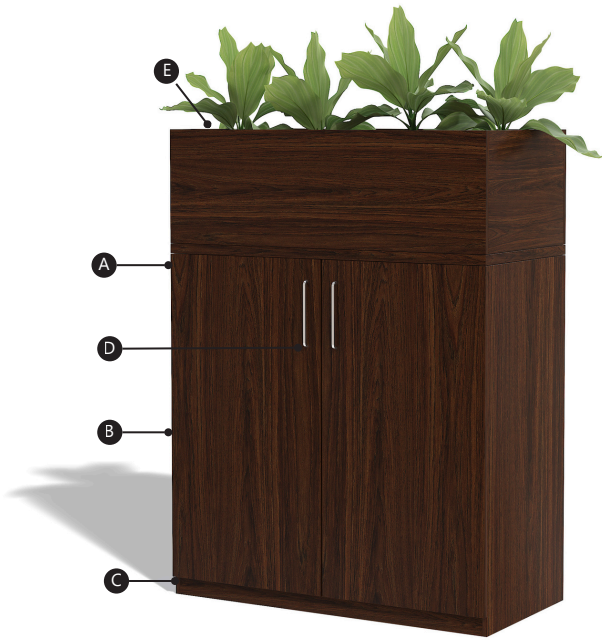

More than a planter unit, it is designed to shape how people feel within a space, calmer, more connected and more comfortable. The introduction of natural textures and planting adds warmth to commercial interiors, encouraging better conversations, collaboration and wellbeing.

PLYNE represents Oficio's belief that thoughtful design should enhance both function and human experience.
